Good Day! by Maureen Rupe Indian River Lagoon – Sales Tax Vote in November – What will it do?

On August 9th, the Brevard County Commission voted 5-0 to let the people decide on a plan to provide a ½ cent sales tax to clean up the Indian River Lagoon. This, despite Commissioner Infantini doing what she said she wouldn't for months. She then abruptly left the meeting with county business still on the agenda.

There was overwhelming support for the tax. At least 250 people attended, mostly in Blue Shirts; 50 plus speakers for the lagoon.

The tax would last 10 years, estimated to generate $34 million per year for a 10 year total of $340 million. The county would negotiate municipal revenue sharing agreements to ensure all money is in a central fund for Lagoon Projects. Lagoon Projects would have a Volunteer Citizen Oversight Committee consisting of scientists, technology entrepreneurs, economists/finance, real estate interests, education/outreach, tourism/nature-based tourism, and Lagoon advocacy.

So what does a sales tax do to you? There are many exemptions: grocery food, prescription drugs, machinery, raw materials, utilities & fuel, medical devices, medical services, general occasional sales, parts purchased for use in performing service under optional maintenance contracts, transportation services, most canned software, digital products and general trade-ins.

What will be on the ballot in November?

___ AGAINST the ½ cent sales tax

The following is from the Save Our Indian River Lagoon Project Plan Executive Summary:

"This Save Our Lagoon Project Plan outlines local projects planned to meet water quality targets and improve the health, productivity, aesthetic appeal and economic value of the lagoon. Implementation of these projects is contingent upon funding raised through the referendum. This referendum funding would also allow the County to leverage additional dollars in match funding from state and federal grant programs because the IRL ecosystem is valued not only in Florida, but also nationally. Funding implementation of this plan would help to restore this national treasure. Lagoon ecosystem response may lag several years behind completion of nutrient reductions; however, major steps must begin now to advance progress on the long road to recovery.

In the development of this plan, Subject Matter Experts were consulted to provide feedback on the plan elements. The experts all agreed that there is a "critical mass" of nutrient reductions that must be achieved to see a beneficial result in the IRL. This critical level of nutrient reduction will be achieved through the implementation of the projects in this plan. During plan development, it was estimated that the benefit of restoring the lagoon has a present value of $6 billion and a cost of $300 million. Therefore, implementing this plan to restore the IRL is an excellent investment in the future of Brevard County's community and economy with a benefit to cost ratio of 20:1.

In order to restore the lagoon's balance, Brevard County seeks to accelerate implementation of a multi-pronged approach to reduce pollutant and nutrient inputs to the lagoon from fertilizer, reclaimed water from WWTFs, septic systems, and stormwater; remove the accumulation of muck from the lagoon bottom; restore water-filtering oysters and related lagoon ecosystem services; and monitor progress to respond to changing conditions, technologies and new information by amending the plan to substitute actions that will be most successful and cost effective for significantly improving the health, productivity, and natural resilience of the IRL.

The portfolio of projects in this plan were selected as the most cost-effective suite of options to achieve water quality and biological targets for the lagoon system. Investment has been distributed among a set of project types with complimentary benefits to reduce future risk of failure. Nearly two-thirds (2/3) of the effort and expense is directed toward muck removal to address decades of past excess nutrient loading. Approximately one-third (1/3) of the effort is split among multiple efforts to reduce incoming load to healthy levels, restore natural filtration, measure success, and respond with annual plan updates. The plan projects have been prioritized and ordered to deliver improvements to the lagoon in the most beneficial spatial and temporal sequence. The implementation of this plan is expected to result in a healthy IRL system."

Visit their website, www.CitizensForTheLagoon.org. Sign up. There are no membership fees for anyone who is willing to sign a pledge that the severe pollution cannot be allowed to continue; to eliminate or substantially reduce the use of fertilizers, pesticides and other pollutants; to build awareness and knowledge of the Lagoon with regard to pollutants, storm water, septic systems and faulty sewage facilities; to actively encourage our government officials to take bold steps to restore the Lagoon to a healthy estuary; and support and vote for candidates who demonstrate that Lagoon restoration is a top priority.

That's not asking a lot. Fishing, eco-tourism, restaurants, hotels, and almost all shoreline/Lagoon dependent business will be finished if we cannot work together to clean up the Lagoon. Brevard will lose $4 billion annually economically if the Indian River Lagoon dies.

This horrific situation is at least 50 years in the making. We must keep looking forward, with the spirit that "Let's get this done." This is our Lagoon. Help the Lagoon for nature's sake. When we ignore her, she will eventually come back and ruin our lives.

We must all come together on this in November.

to maintain their system and nothing else. The county says it will cost between $100,000 to return it to a ditch (if illegal sheds are removed from their right of way), or $300,000 to repair the drainage pipe. County said they working a full schedule (but other parts of county), and everyone is saying there are a number of rusted out pipes, so I guess this homeowner has to suffer until they finally get to it, IF THE COUNTY EVER GETS TO IT.

Is anyone else in our community having drainage pipe issues? Please let me know.

Clean Water?

We have a chance. According to an August 11, 2016 story in the Miami Herald by Mary Ellen Klas, the new Department of Environmental Protection (DEP) rules to allow an increased allowance in cancer causing chemicals in our water may not happen for a while. Luckily, the Seminole Tribe of Florida has sued to keep the rules from being forwarded to the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) for review. According to the article, "The Seminole Tribe says new rules for toxin levels in drinking water could endanger members' lives." The article went on to say, "The Seminole Tribal members' subsistence consumption rate is over 140 grams of fish per week." The legal complaint says, "That is 5 times greater than the consumption rate used for the proposed rule." If that is the case, one fifth of 140 grams is 28 grams. That is less than one ounce of fish per week. That's 1/16 of a pound or just 2 or 3 shrimp per week or 4 to 6 bites of fish. I know I eat more fish than that.

The other issue is the vote. According to another article in the Tampa Bay Times on August 14, "The governor's Environmental Regulation Commission approved the new water quality rule on a narrow 3-2 vote." The article also said, "DEP moved up the vote on the proposed rule from September to today without offering a reason. The Environmental Regulation Commission hasn't met since December and two of the seven positions — the representative for the environmental community and another representing local government — have been left vacant by Gov. Rick Scott." Why let these new rules go in effect when we are finding so many issues caused by current and previous state and local levels of government. The Tampa Bay Times also said, "The rule updates the state's water quality standards for the first time since 1992 by allowing for 23 toxics, including 18 carcinogens, to be discharged from industrial polluters at higher levels. The chemicals are among those released by oil and gas drilling companies, dry cleaners, pulp and paper producers, electricity plants, wastewater treatment plants and agriculture. Under the new rules, at least 10 chemicals will now be allowed to be discharged into drinking water sources in amounts that exceed current drinking water standards."

BCSO SAYS "LOCK IT OR LOSE IT!"

DO NOT leave valuables in your car, and especially DO NOT leave your weapons in there! This happened recently in our area...twice on two separate occasions. BCSO has been patrolling more often, but we need public assistance. Most of the crimes happen between 3:00 am and 6 am. We need area residents to report any suspicious vehicles and individuals in the area.

We've had reports of attempted break ins and thieves are taking vehicles. A little girl's ATV was stolen, ruined and recovered by a member of our watch group. We hope to help her get it fixed at no charge, so if anyone can help out, please send us a line or message on Facebook at PSJ Neighborhood Crime.

We have guest speakers each month to bring materials of mass instruction...and freebies! Everyone who attends gets to reap the benefits. Save money on home security systems and other products that help keep you and your home safe.

We are having a BLOCK CAPTAIN ROUND-UP! It only takes a few minutes a week, and it helps to attend the meetings.

Neighborhood Watch meets the first Thursday of every month at St. Patrick's Church on Curtis Blvd. The public is invited to attend and urged to become an active member. We are over 3.1k strong on our active FB page and growing. Come grow with us!

Monthly Tax Update

Now is the time to make or make plans to fund your Individual Retirement Arrangement (IRA). This means you may have questions about IRAs and your taxes. Here are some IRS tax tips about saving for retirement using an IRA.

Age rules. You must be under age 70½ at the end of the tax year in order to contribute to a traditional IRA. There is no age limit to contribute to a Roth IRA.

Compensation rules. You must have taxable earned wages to contribute to an IRA. This includes income from wages and salaries and net self-employment income. It also includes tips, commissions, bonuses and alimony. If you are married and file a joint tax return, only one spouse needs to have compensation in most cases.

When to contribute. You can contribute to an IRA at any time during the year. To count for 2015, you must contribute by the due date of your tax return. This does not include extensions. That means most people must contribute by April 15, 2016. If you contribute between Jan. 1 and April 15, make sure your plan sponsor applies it to the year you choose (2015 or 2016).

Contribution limits. In general, the most you can contribute to your IRA for 2015 is the smaller of your taxable compensation for the year or $5,500. If you will be age 50 or older at the end of 2015, the maximum you can contribute increases to $6,500 or earned wages. If you contribute more than these limits, an additional tax will apply. The added tax is 6 percent of the excess amount that you contributed unless you recharacterize the contribution before April 15th.

Taxability rules. You won't pay income tax on funds in your traditional IRA until you start taking distributions from it. Qualified distributions from a Roth IRA are tax-free if made after you reach the age of 59 1/2 or it's your basis.

Deductibility rules. You may be able to deduct some or all of your contributions to your traditional IRA. Use the worksheets for the Form 1040A or Form 1040 instructions to figure the amount that you can deduct. You may claim the deduction on either form. You may not deduct contributions to a Roth IRA.

Saver's Credit. If you contribute to either IRA you may also qualify for the Retirement Saver's Credit. The credit could reduce some of your taxes. Use Form 8880, Credit for Qualified Retirement Savings Contributions, to claim the credit. You can file Form 1040A or 1040 to claim the Saver's Credit.

Next, it's time to check your Federal tax withholding to prevent a surprise when you do your taxes. Each year, many people get a larger refund or pay more than they expect. Some find they owe a lot more tax than they thought they would. If this has happened to you, review your situation to prevent a tax surprise. Did you get married? Have a child? Changes in income? Life events can have a major impact on your taxes. Having the correct amount being withheld is most important. You need to review and update your Form W-4, Employee's Withholding Allowance Certificate. Your employer will use the form to figure the amount of Federal income tax to withheld from your pay. You may use the IRS Withholding Calculator on IRS.gov to help you fill out the form. This tool is easy to use and it's available 24/7. For more information, see Publication 505, Tax Withholding and Estimated Tax. You can get it on IRS.gov/forms at any time.

This is very brief overview. For details and specific assistance in applying the general information in this article, call us at your earliest convenience or contact your tax advisor.

Out On the Town

This month's Port St. John restaurant review is on the China Wok, located in the Publix shopping center on US1. If you're looking for good quality Chinese food that's reasonably priced with super-fast service, then the China Wok is the place. The portions are large and in most cases you can get 2 servings from one dish.

The hours are convenient. They are open Monday through Saturday, 11am to 11 pm, and Sundays 12 pm to 10 pm. We generally call in our orders and they're ready for pickup within 15-20 minutes. Each dish appears to be prepared fresh since the food is piping hot and the vegetables aren't overcooked.

For this visit, my wife and I both got combination dinners. My wife ordered the Chicken Lo Mein and I got the Pork Lo Mein. The combination dinners include an egg roll and fried rice. The egg rolls are great, so we usually order extras. Both of our dinners had an ample amount of meat with the Lo Mein noodles. In fact, it contained more meat than most other restaurants.

On this visit we also ordered a side of Wonton soup, which comes with a good portion of Wonton strips (chips). It was good, but the pasta wrap was a little undercooked.

We also ordered a small Sesame Chicken served with a side of white rice. I'm generally not someone who likes sweet dishes, but this dish had a good balance of savory with the sweet. Traditionally, Sesame Chicken dinners are chunks of boneless chicken, breaded, fried and covered in a glaze of sweet sauce served over a bed of white rice.

All in all, if you're in hurry and want large portions of great Chinese food at a reasonable price, China Wok is the place. And who knows, you may even get the winning lottery numbers in your fortune cookie.

GOOD SAMARITAN

A Sunday school teacher was telling her class the story of the Good Samaritan. She asked the class, "If you saw a person lying on the roadside, all wounded and bleeding, what would you do?"

A thoughtful little girl broke the hushed silence, "I think I'd throw up."

Lower Your Electric Bill

We continue to experience extreme, record-setting summer heat, which means we're all using more energy to keep our homes cool. Because A/C units run twice as long in the summer than during cooler months and account for more than half of your energy bill, you likely will notice your summer bills are higher than normal. Now is the time to take control of your energy use.

Ways to save energy and money:

- You can save energy and money by increasing the temperature in your home.
- We recommend setting your thermostat to 78 degrees when you're home and 82 degrees when you leave.
- With every degree you increase, you can save about 5% on your monthly cooling costs.

Visit FPL.com/EasyToSave to help you find even more ways to save.

Special Thanx to FPL for providing this information. They have an Ask the Energy Expert blog online for questions about how you can save energy and money. Learn about quick and effective ways to help lower your bill at www.FPLblog.com.

Rose's Room

~ Rose Padrick

Waiting in line at the grocery store, I noticed a beautiful 3- or 4-year-old child and her mother in a battle of wills. I turned my head and tried not to smile when the child grabbed a candy bar from the display at checkout. Mom took it away, whispering, "No, no, Kimberly, no candy before dinner."

Undaunted, Kimberly grabbed another. Shaking her head, mom tried, "Mommy said 'no.' Put it back."

Kimberly grabbed another. Sticking to her guns, mom raised her voice just a little with, "Stop that and give me the candy!"

Kimberly popped the whole thing - paper and all - into her mouth.

Stifling a smile, I admired this young mother keeping her cool, not even raising her voice. That she was able to do this without pulling out the Secret Weapon was impressive, but it got me to wondering if we have become such a splintered society that it's not being passed down any more.

The Secret Weapon I'm referring to is the mother's scowl. Fathers have scowls also, but because they scowl most of the time anyway, it is not near as effective as mom's.

Dad instinctively scowls when three kids and a dog run between him and the T.V. just as someone important is about to do something important in a football game, or basketball game, or wrestling match.

Mothers instinctively know, to be effective, scowls must be used sparingly, on an as-needed basis. Moms do not waste the scowl on non-life-threatening acts. A kid will - and has - gotten away with only a time-out and a warning for filling the toilet with little plastic army men, or banishment to the bedroom with out finishing dinner for launching peas from her spoon at her sister.

But a mother walking into a room just as one offspring is about to whack another with a toy fire truck, or baby doll, or potted plant will produce a whopper of a scowl.

Children instinctively know to freeze the second they see or feel Mom's scowl. I don't mean the everyday, "someone-stole-my-parking-space" scowl. I mean the full-face, one eyebrow raised, one pointing downward, angry-eyes-boring-holes-right-through-you kind.

According to my children, they stopped whatever they were doing and dropped to their knees in prayer when hit with the scowl. I don't remember much dropping or praying, but I do believe several of them still have all their limbs and faculties thanks to a well-timed scowl. It got us into and out of grocery stores, malls and childless friends' homes with minimal damage to body and structures.

I might have a pretty good scowl, but my mother was the Queen of Scowldom. Her scowl could stop a pack of rabid pit bulls. If accompanied by pursing of her lips, trees within a one-mile radius dropped their leaves. I could feel her scowl at a friend's house three blocks away when I was supposed to have been home half-hour earlier.

There is some disagreement between my brother and me over who was the object of most of Mom's scowls. I'm sorry Steve's memory is so far gone, but then he is the one that told Mom

I threw him in the river in his Sunday clothes — he clearly jumped in himself.

He also caused me to be the recipient of not only the mother of all scowls, but a smack as well, when he ripped all my comic books and told Mom I just walked up and hit him for no reason. He repeated the hitting for no reason thing quite a few times during our childhood, as I remember.

His memories differ from mine in almost all areas, but we both agree we wish mom was still here to set us on the right path with just a scowl.

Mims Mullet Festival

It's time to feast on mullet, listen to some great music and check out the craft booths! The Mims United Methodist Church and the First Baptist Church of Mims are hosting the 8th annual Mims Mullet Festival on Saturday, October 1st, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. The festival will be held on the grounds of the Mims United Methodist Church, 3302 Green Street, and First Baptist Church of Mims, 2395 Kentucky Ave, in Mims. Admission is free.

A Kick-off Dinner for $25 per person will be held the previous Saturday (Sep. 24) at 5 p.m. in the banquet hall at Indian River Preserve Golf Club (formerly Walkabout), 3950 Clubhouse Drive, Mims (non-golfers welcome). The entrees are either Country-fried steak or BBQ chicken, plus salad and sides. A silent auction will be held for attendees. Pre-purchased tickets are required and can be purchased at the Mims United Methodist Church office or by calling 321-267-6202.

On Festival day, the activity starts early with a Golf Tournament at Indian River Preserve Golf Club. Registration begins at 7 a.m. with a shotgun start at 8:30 a.m. The cost is $65 per golfer or $260/foursome. Golfers must register by Monday, September 26th. All tournament proceeds from the golf tournament will benefit the Florida United Methodist Children's Home in Enterprise and the Florida Baptist Children's Home in Lakeland. For advance tournament registration or more information, please e-mail mulletgolf@rocketmail.com or call 321-267-6202.

At the Festival there will be smoked and fried mullet dinners, BBQ chicken and pork dinners or sandwiches, or if you prefer, hamburgers and hot dogs. Dinner plate prices include 2 sides and a drink. Both churches will host a bake sale, so you can also purchase a delicious home-made treat for dessert or take home a whole cake!

Entertainment includes rock climbing, bouncy house, horse rides and games for the children, a car show with 50+ autos, a craft fair and music all afternoon. Games are reasonably priced, with discounts for wrist bands. Girls aged 10-13 and 14-18 can also enter the Mullet Maiden contests.

On Sunday, Oct. 2, First Baptist Church of Mims will be hosting a FREE community breakfast and church service. Breakfast is from 8:30 a.m. to 9:30 a.m., with service at 9:30.

The morning of Monday, May 9th, 57 year old, John Parker, Junior was rushed to the hospital. Seizing and without control of his body for the first time in his life, he would be soon facing a fate no one wishes for. His family and friends would quickly receive the unimaginable diagnosis and emotionally charged updates from his wife of almost sixteen years, Barbara.

John suffered what all thought to be a painful and scary stroke amidst a seizure - his next reality even more inconceivable. By quick medical observation it proved to be one of the most gut-wrenching and heart-breaking conditions of all possible outcomes. John has been diagnosed with Glioblastoma. The cancer has morphed into a stage four level. This cancer is not curable. Literally the most lethal type of cancer, John is pushing forward and fighting back. After all, he has three amazing grandchildren to play with and a bass guitar to rock the inside of his church with. He has a beautiful wife to dote on - his "till death do us part" being forced to retreat. John has a wedding to attend next year, church services to be a part of and a life full of laughter in which he refuses to let go this easily.

Since the harrowing morning of his seizure,

John has been monitored by neurologists who specialize in this form of cancer and treated accordingly. Although tired and weak, which is to be expected, 95% of the tumors have been removed. Radiation and chemotherapy are being conducted to combat this disease. These types of procedures are costly and uncomfortable. John is no longer working and is without insurance. Bills are mounting and the correlating stress has been compacted into this surreal reality.

With your contributions, you are allowing us to keep John as comfortable as possible. We cherish every second we have with him! We can't thank everyone enough for all the love and support we have received during this time.

In the words of John Parker, Junior - "Peace and love, man, peace and love."

With sincerest gratitude-The Parker Family

Car Jacked in Florida

An elderly Floridian called 911 on his cell phone to report that his car has been broken into. He is hysterical as he explains his situation to the dispatcher: "They've stolen the stereo, the steering wheel, the brake pedal and even the accelerator!" he cried.

The dispatcher said, "Stay calm... An officer is on the way."

A few minutes later, the officer radios in, "Disregard," he says, "He got in the back-seat by mistake."

Counties score a 'big win,' can proceed with federal All Aboard Florida lawsuit

- By Lisa Broadt of TCPalm

In a major victory for All Aboard Florida opponents, a federal judge on Tuesday said Martin and Indian River counties have legal standing to proceed with a lawsuit against the Miami-to-Orlando passenger railroad service.

After reviewing thousands of pages of evidence, "the court concludes that the counties have now met their burden of demonstrating standing," U.S. District Court Judge Christopher Cooper said in a 39-page memorandum released late Tuesday.

If the decision — which Cooper described as a "close call" — had gone the other way, the counties' cases against the U.S. Department of Transportation and All Aboard Florida would have been dismissed.

All Aboard Florida — a $3.1 billion project — plans to begin running 16 round trips daily between Miami and Orlando by late 2017.

Still, Martin and Indian River counties were not entirely successful: Cooper agreed to let the counties argue violations of the National Environmental Policy Act, the National Historic Preservation Act and the Department of Transportation Act, but said he was not convinced that there might have been violations of Internal Revenue Service code and dismissed that argument.

Martin County Attorney Michael Durham said he was pleased the county's lawsuit will be able to proceed.

"This is a big win, and goes to show that if you stick with an issue, the truth will come out," Durham said.

All Aboard Florida officials did not respond to a request for comment on Tuesday.

Cooper's decision follows more than 18 months of court proceedings, including a 3½-hour court hearing June 30 during which All Aboard Florida and the U.S. DOT asked Cooper to dismiss the case.

Martin and Indian River counties filed the federal lawsuit in early 2015.

The project, according to the counties, would cause irreparable damage to local communities and should not have received preliminary approval for tax-exempt financing before a final federal environmental-impact report came out.

But in June, 2015, Cooper ruled the counties failed to convince him that blocking bond financing would stop the project — the minimum legal standard they needed to meet before he would rule on other aspects of the case — and denied their request to block bond sales.

Tuesday's ruling reverses that decision.

"The court finds that invalidating DOT's decision to authorize $1.75 billion in (bonds) would significantly increase the likelihood that AAF would not complete Phase II of the project," Cooper wrote.

Martin County needs to complete further review of the decision before it determines its next step, according to Durham.

All Aboard Florida already has begun building its first phase, from Miami to West Palm Beach, with stations in Miami, Fort Lauderdale and West Palm Beach. Service there is to begin next year.

TIME TO PRAY

A pastor asked a little boy if he said his prayers every night. "Yes, sir," the boy replied.

"And, do you always say them in the morning, too?" the pastor asked.

"No sir," the boy replied. "I ain't scared in the daytime."

Much More Than A Coin!

Susan B. Anthony was a pioneer crusader for the woman suffrage movement in the United States. The U.S. Treasury Department put her portrait on one dollar coins in 1979, the first woman to be so honored. Why?

She helped pave the way for the 19th Amendment to the Constitution, giving women the right to vote.

Anthony was, in essence, a "freedom fighter." She worked to end slavery in the abolitionist movement. Early on she realized that no one would take women in politics seriously unless they had the right to vote. She was tireless in her efforts to gain the right to vote for women, giving speeches around the country to convince others to support a woman's right to vote. She even took matters into her own hands in 1872 when she voted in the presidential election illegally. Anthony was arrested and tried unsuccessfully to fight the charges. She ended up being fined $100 – a fine she never paid.

When Anthony died on March 13, 1906, women still did not have the right to vote. It wasn't until 1920 that the 19th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution, giving all adult women the right to vote, was passed.

Anthony, a Republican, was denied the right to vote and thrown in jail for trying to take part in a presidential ballot. In 2016, the Democratic nominee for President is a woman and women in the U.S. have the right to vote. Whichever party you are, GET OUT AND VOTE!!!

Looks like we are getting a Krispy Krunchy Chicken store. It will be located on the south end of the BP Station at the corner of Canaveral Grove's and Grissom Pky. I had a chance to speak with Mr. Miguel Hurtado, Jr. at the store site the other day. Miguel is a corporate trainer for Krispy Krunchy. He told me that the store is scheduled to start selling product within the next month to a month and a half, depending on if things go well with the licensing.

Krispy Krunchy is a franchise operation out of Louisiana offering Cajun Recipe fried chicken, fish, shrimp, buffalo wings, breakfast and other Bayou favorites. I have tried their stores on Dixon, as well as their store at the BP on US 1 and Peachtree in Cocoa. Everything I have tried so far has been very tasty, so if you are looking for something new close to home, be sure to stay tuned.

As I promised from last month, I contacted my brother by another mother, Jerry Wall. Jerry is a dear friend that lives in "West By Gosh Canaveral Groves." I get out to see him every so often but I have to take my truck to get to his place. He is still having some health issues but they are not slowing him down much. We talked about his critters and a couple of other things that are pertinent to their area of the Groves. As to the hog that took out the air conditioning ducts, she no longer is in the picture, but she was replaced with a new addition which they named Pinky. After a few months guess what Pinky did? A second raid on the vents. What did he expect? Pigs like cool air, too, but she is doing well. As to his herd of goats, only one is left and this one seems to be a gymnast. Jerry says that sometimes he looks out of the window and that goat is on top of their car. Jerry immediately goes out on the front porch and calmly calls to the goat. You #%$@^*^&% ^%$ goat. Get your *&$%# @%# off of the car. Sometimes it works, sometimes it dose not. Anyway, the grass is scorched at least ten feet from the porch.
